Did You Know Cottonwood Heights Has a Business Association?

By Councilmember Tee Tyler

Cottonwood Heights is home to many successful businesses. These businesses are large and small, local and international in sales and scope.

Many have gained national recognition for their quality goods and services. Companies like Master Control, SanDisk, Instructure, Jet Blue and Extra Storage call Cottonwood Heights home.

But there are also hundreds of successful small businesses that contribute to the welfare of the city. In order for a community to survive, it takes all sizes of companies providing plentiful services or products.

During the past few years, the Cottonwood Heights City Council has discussed how we could best support business owners throughout our city and attract more quality companies that could make Cottonwood Heights their home base.

We considered joining one of the many existing Chambers of Commerce in Salt Lake County or discussed whether we should work to form our own new Chamber of Commerce. We also debated numerous other ideas that we felt could help business owners in the city.

The diversity of the types of businesses in our community and the desire to gain the most value for resources spent in this endeavor led us to our decision to form the Cottonwood Heights Business Association (CHBA).

Earlier this year, under the leadership of our Cottonwood Heights Community and Economic Development (CED) Director Brian Berndt and Business Development employee Peri Kinder, our city launched the CHBA, which is free to all businesses licensed with Cottonwood Heights. The main goals of the CHBA are to:

1. Provide business owners in Cottonwood Heights regular opportunities to network with one another and create effective partnerships.
2. Have city leadership listen to ideas, concerns and accomplishments in the business community.
3. Find ways to best support and promote business goals and objectives.
4. Provide a new and direct way for the city to communicate with business owners.
5. Explore ideas and suggestions regarding ways to attract complementary new businesses to Cottonwood Heights.
6. Create a thriving business atmosphere in the city that encourages continued economic growth.

In six short months, we feel we have the CHBA rolling. We have more than 100 business

John LeRoy McGhie was born Nov. 16, 1889. He was the son of John and Rosetta Daw McGhie and the grandson of William and Mary McGhie, who settled in the area in 1867. John LeRoy was born and raised on his parents' farm, located north of 7000 South between 2000 and 2300 East. He was a schoolteacher in Sandy and Draper and was principal of the Copperton School. Mr. McGhie left the education system and worked for South East Furniture Company as assistant credit manager for seven years before working as credit manager at Auerbach Company for 21 years. At the time of his death in 1951, he was manager of collections at the Salt Lake Credit Bureau. John LeRoy and his wife, Sigrid, had five sons and five daughters. ■

The Rich History of Poverty Flats Celebrated At Gathering

By Jerri A. Harwell

On Sept. 23, members of the Cottonwood Heights Historic Committee hosted Mayor Kelvyn Cullimore and city council members to an evening of Poverty Flats' history, and tales, along with some old-fashioned peach cobbler and ice cream. The cobbler was made by committee member Carol Woodside, from her mother's pioneer-times recipe.

Poverty Flats, as it was called in pioneer times due the difficulty of growing anything in the soil, spans the area between Fort Union Boulevard south near Parkridge Drive, and between 1400 East to 2000 East.

Long-time resident Gene Whiting treated attendees to stories about his boyhood homes and school days.

Life-long resident Ruby Price Klenk reminisced about growing up in the area, or as she called it, "The Hill." She also remembered watching the development of subdivisions spring up.

The gathering was held at Antczak Park, and the committee also took opportunity to recognize the park's namesake Don Antczak for his years of service to the community. Don is also a member of the Historic Committee.

The committee also announced that the city has accepted a proposal for Allen Roberts to write the city's history from about 1849 into the 1950s. ■

Snow Removal: Plowing Through Together

By John Park, CH City Manager

Unseasonably warm weather made it feel like autumn would last forever, but we always knew that snow was just around the corner. We're gearing up for all that winter brings to Cottonwood Heights, and want you to know what we're doing to make sure snow removal goes as smooth as possible.

STREET PLOWING PRIORITIES

As always, our first priority is to make sure the trucks are ready and the plows are installed. We have our road salt just waiting to slice through the ice and snow. This year, we have been working with our public works provider Terracare to optimize our snowplow routes. Route optimization pioneered by parcel delivery companies such as FedEx and UPS has also been used in snow plowing for over a decade. Route optimization takes into consideration avoiding left turns and making sure our plows are always moving. This effort will assure that streets will be plowed quicker, allowing us to make our first pass through the city earlier than we ever have before. Recently, you might have seen or heard our snowplows on your street all hours of the day and night. Terracare has been training and retraining their drivers over their various routes the past few weeks to make sure everything is ready. All of our plows have GPS tracking systems, which allow us to know the location of each truck and guide each driver through their routes.

Interestingly, snowfall in Cottonwood Heights requires us to deal with three different areas which may have different amount and types of snow for us to deal with. The lower area west of Highland Drive may have much less snow than the area to the east, and the homes east of Wasatch may be inundated with snow while a few flakes are dropping to the west.

Streets are plowed in a prioritized manner with main roads such as Fort Union Boulevard and other high-traffic areas as "priority one" streets. Other streets are prioritized based on school bus routes, steep slopes, road classification, etc. You can see the priority maps on our website (http:// cottonwoodheights.utah.gov/city\_services/public\_works/snow\_removal/). In heavy snowstorms, circumstances may dictate we plow high priority streets several times before we ever get into the residential areas. Once the priority areas have been taken care of, plow operators will concentrate on residential streets and lastly, cul-de-sacs.

It may take as long as 24 hours to plow all of the streets after the snow stops falling. In large or extended winter storm events, we may be cleaning up certain areas even longer than that. To accomplish all of this, the city has been partitioned into several routes that will allow us to optimize time and resources.

As we are always trying to improve snowplowing efforts, our routes may change from time to time. This can be somewhat aggravating when your street has often been on the front end of a particular route but is suddenly changed to the middle or the end of a route.

PARKING - HOW YOU CAN HELP

The biggest impediment to efficient snowplowing is vehicles parked on the street. It is not legal to park on the street during a snow event. We will be enforcing street parking during snow events to a higher level this year. If you park on the street, you will have to pay a fine and your vehicle is subject to impoundment. In fact, several cars are towed away every year. Often, there are more illegally parked cars than we can deal with on any given snow event. On residential streets, we can sometimes only plow one strip down the middle of the road while some cul-de-sacs are impossible to plow at all because of parked cars. We cannot emphasize enough the problems caused by parked cars when we are trying to plow. Please help out by parking in driveways or parking lots whenever possible.

LET US KNOW - THE FASTEST WAY

During any snow event, we have a snow removal hotline that is checked at least hourly during a snow event. The number is 801-944-7071. Even if you call any other phone number at city offices or contact us via any other method (email, social media) with plow concerns or questions, we will transfer you to the same hotline, so that the appropriate personnel can respond. Messages left on the main city line or on phones of employees or elected officials will also likely result in a delayed response. Calling our hotline is the fastest way to get through. We typically have a few extra plows available to react to streets that have been missed or have unusual circumstances. If this is the case, please let us know. We're here for you.

Making our streets safe and convenient is our highest priority during wet, slick weather. Let us know what we can do to accomplish our goals, and please do your part to keep the roads clear. Together, we can plow through whatever winter throws at us. ■

Bike Plan Open House Planned

The city is preparing a bike plan that will help improve bicycle transportation in Cottonwood Heights. The purpose of the plan is to propose strategies that help create a cohesive, functional network of bike lanes throughout the city, in addition to creating safe riding conditions for cyclists and increasing recreational biking opportunities.

The open house will be held to present a draft plan to the citizens of Cottonwood Heights. The city is looking for feedback on the plan, and would like to receive comments and suggestions from anybody who is interested.

The open house will be held on Thursday Nov. 12 at city offices (1265 E. Fort Union Boulevard) in the training room on the first floor. Please stop by any time between 6 to 8 p.m. to look at the plan, ask questions, and offer suggestions that will help improve cycling in Cottonwood Heights. ■

Fire and Fall Prevention Tips

By Assistant Chief Mike Watson
Unified Fire Authority

As summer transitions into fall, fire danger and other safety hazards shift from the outdoors to inside your homes.

Here are a few safety tips to keep you and your family safe, in and around your home:

- If you smoke, smoke outside: Use deep, sturdy ashtrays. Wet cigarette butts and ashes before throwing them out or bury them in sand. NEVER smoke in bed. Give space heaters space. Keep them at least three feet away from combustibles. Shut off and unplug heaters when you leave or when you are going to bed.
- Be kitchen wise: Wear tight fitting clothing or short sleeves when cooking. Use oven mitts to handle hot pans. Never leave cooking unattended. If a pan of food catches fire, slide a lid over it and turn off the burner. Don't cook if you are drowsy from medication.
- Stop, Drop and Roll: If your clothes catch on fire, stop (don't run), drop gently to the ground, and cover your face with your hands. Roll over and over to put the fire out. Use cool water to cool the burn and seek medical attention right away.
- Smoke alarms save lives. Make sure you have working smoke alarms installed in every living area in your home. Make sure to test your smoke alarms and change the batteries as needed. If you need help reaching your alarms, please ask someone to assist you.
- Plan for a fire: Know two ways out of every room in your home. Make sure you can easily open windows and doors. Plan your escape route around your abilities. Know to call 9-1-1 in case of a fire and if there is a fire, get out of your home and stay out.
- Exercise Regularly: Exercise builds strength and improves your balance and coordination. Ask your doctor about the best physical exercise for you. Take your time. Get out of chairs slowly. Sit a moment before you get out of your bed. Stand and get your balance before you walk. Be aware of your surroundings.
- Clear the way: Keep stairs and walking areas free of electrical cords, shoes, clothing, books, magazines and other clutter.

- Look out for yourself: Poor vision will increase your chance of falling, so visit an eye specialist once a year. Improve lighting in your home. Use lights to light the path between your bedroom and your bathroom. Turn on the lights before using the stairs.
- Wipe up spills immediately: Use non-slip mats in the bathtub and on shower floors. Have grab bars installed on the wall in the tub and the shower and next to the toilet.
- Be aware of uneven surfaces: Use only throw rugs that have rubber, non-skid backing. Smooth out wrinkles and folds in carpeting.
- Tread carefully: Stairways should be well lit from top to bottom. Have easy-to-grip handrails installed along the full length of both sides of the stairs.
- Put your best foot forward: Wear sturdy, well-fitted low-heeled shoes with non-slip soles. These are safer than high heels, thick-soled athletic shoes, slippers, or stocking feet.

CHPD First To Join SL County Critical Incident Task Force

The Cottonwood Heights Police Department was the first municipal law enforcement to enter into an Officer-Involved Critical Incident (OICI) task force in Salt Lake County earlier this fall.

The formation of the multi jurisdictional task force comes by statute from the Utah Legislature, which passed House Bill 361 during the 2015 legislative session.

The new law helps police outside their own jurisdiction conduct investigations of incidents involving police, including officer-involved shootings, in-custody deaths and other critical situations.

CHPD Chief Robby Russo is happy to be part of the new task force in Salt Lake County. "We shouldn't investigate ourselves," Russo said. "This new law gives such investigations credibility and transparency."

All Utah municipal police forces are required by law to enter into OICI agreements by December of 2015. So far, South Jordan, West Jordan, Murray and Draper have joined with Cottonwood Heights to form the Salt Lake County task force. ■

Leaf Bags Available

The Wasatch Front Waste and Recycling District has provided a limited number of free leaf bags to Cottonwood Heights residents.

The bags are available for pick up at city offices (1265 E. Fort Union Blvd. #250) and at the Cottonwood Heights Recreation Center (7500 S. 2700 East).

The leaf bag program helps divert leaves from the landfill and saves on tipping fees.

Between Oct. 15th and Nov. 30th, full leaf bags can be dropped at Bywater Park (3300 E. 7420 South) for collection.

All locations may be found at www.wasatchfrontwaste.org. ■

Cottonwood Heights Offers Business Boot Camps

Operating a successful business is tough—and a lot of work. So city officials in Cottonwood Heights have created the Business Boot Camp series that covers all kinds of business-related topics. These four-week workshops are held at various times throughout the year, addressing different aspects from starting a business to the day-to-day business operation it takes to be successful.

In May, the boot camp workshops focused on business start-up classes like creating a business plan, finding funding and how to register a business through the state and license it through the city or county.

September's classes helped business owners navigate the numerous social media platforms to help them determine which site would work best for their business. Experts on Instagram, Facebook, YouTube and Google+ taught boot camp attendees tricks and techniques to get the best results from a social media campaign.

Coming up in March, the boot camp series will address business communications issues such as how to give and receive criticism, how to respond to negative reviews and how to create a positive work environment through healthy communication.

All boot camp classes are free and open to everyone who might be interested. Previous participants included small business owners, interested residents, students, CEOs and marketing specialists. If you would like more info about the Cottonwood Heights Business Boot Camp, or have an idea for a topic, please contact Peri Kinder at pkinder@ch.utah.gov or 801-944-7067. ■
